Comments: I cannot believe this is even up for discussion. You can't just regrow old growth, or the ecosystem that goes with them.

Look. You all need to take a longer view of environmental management. We don't need more f-ing lumber. These forests are carbon syncs. They're older than our entire nation. Placating industry's short sighted ambition is how we got here. It's why we have a climate where you now have to worry "fuels". Stop.

Stop cutting old growth. Plant more trees everywhere you can. They're the best and only carbon removal technology we have.
