Comments: I would like the historic shelter at Emerald Lake on Mt Timpanogas restored.

It was a place where we, family (or friends) were able to take a long break to snack and commune with each other.

Grandfather, adult children and in-laws, grandchildren, siblings and cousins bonded inside the enclosure as we rested and took shelter from the chilly winds. The joys of those experiences are still with us whenever we get together and reminisce on our past youth and the days our group owned the mountain.

Now more people of different ages, stamina, and preparation traverse the trail making it more necessary to enable Rescue Teams and/or Firefighters access to the difficult terrain and challenging altitude.

Just as a growing City population requires additional Medical Services and Firefighters, the Mt Timpanogas trail needs an accessible location for Rescue Teams to assemble and work with unexpected perilous situations.
