The Forest Service should be true to its mission to protect the wild character of the Mount Timpanogos Wilderness. The Quinoset hut is not needed to administer the Wilderness and in fact violates the wilderness atmosphere.

The Wilderness Act clearly precludes structures such as the hut. Visitors do not need a hut and the proposed use of helicopters violates the mission of the Forest Service in maintaining The Wilderness.

The Forest Service should either allow the hut to decay over time or remove it with non-mechanized means.
