Comments: The USFS first responsibly in this case is to protect this wilderness area. Human made structures do not enhance but rather degrade the wild nature of this and any area set aside as wild and are not needed. In this case the structure in question must not be rebuilt but rather allowed to be reclaimed by natural forces or dragged out as is by mules or other non motorized means. Once out of the wilderness, who ever owns it can take responsibility for it. For guidance, please refer to the Wilderness Act and USFS Policy.
