Comments: I have hiked in the Timpanogas area when my family lived in Salt Lake City, and I treasure its wilderness qualities. Please do not abandon the principles of the Wilderness Act by restoring a superfluous metal Quonset hut that should be allowed to deteriorate as mother Nature intends. Humans do not need it, and we definitely do not need to pay for expensive helicopters and heavy equipment to prop up this ugly piece of long ago construction.

Let Mother Nature take care of its demise, or if you must remove it, do so in a gentle, environmental way, as it was constructed in 1960.

sincerely,

Bonnie Johnson
