Comments: That the USFS would approve an amendment allowing the continued logging of old growth forests in the current era of rampant environmental destruction and degradation in addition to runaway climate change is mind boggling, soul crushing, and downright bad, evil policy. Old growth forests are critical to mitigating the worst effects of both climate change and biodiversity loss. On a human to human level, I really ask you as an individual living in this country, please just open your eyes. Old growth forests are a marvel upon the Earth. Please do the right thing.
