Comments: My grandfather worked for the US Forest Service as a wildfire fighter for his entire life, and my family on that side are all loggers. But every single one of them, and myself included, would tell you that the US Forest Service needs to STOP logging old growth forests. Old growth forests are vital to the health of the ecosystem at large and at a time with global warming and preservation of the ecosystem are at an all time importance, logging of old growth forests needs to stop.
