Comments: I object to the reconstruction of the Emerald Lake Shelter, Project 66370. It would seem once the Shelter was so badly damaged that it should just be cleaned up or left for Nature to take its course and swallow it up. I don't see that it gives any value to the Wilderness. Reconstruction would entail using machinery etc. to bring in equipment and products for restructure. This would damage the ecosystem while trying to build the shelter. It doesn't make any sense to destroy land to add a building.

Wilderness is just supposed to be wild is it not? Then, let it be wild without a shelter.
