Comments: Dear Forest Service

Old-growth forests are not just majestic landscapes; they are essential habitats for a diverse range of plant and animal species, including our imperiled Yaak population of grizzly bears.

The rich biodiversity of old-growth forests is a cornerstone for ecological resilience in a changing climate. Moreover, old-growth forests excel at absorbing and storing carbon dioxide, playing a crucial role in addressing climate change.

Please protect these resources strengthen your proposal dramatically to prevent logging of mature and old-growth forests. The ancient primary forest at Black Ram, on the Kootenai National Forest, should be protected as a Climate Refuge. Forest defense is climate defense!
