Comments: You know what I appreciate the heck out of the Forest Service and I worked building trails for the Washington Trails Association for awhile (and I got a green hardhat with my name on it. I love the forests of the Pacific Northwest and I want them protected as a buffer to climate change also. After working for "Ben's Truck Stop " in Blaine for a while (a couple of months) I realized these guys are not fooling around. A pump read $700 and 166 gallons of diesel after a trucker was done with it. Also I saw "dry lightning" after coming home from a camping trip. That scared me a bit. There wasn't enough rain to wet the pavement for miles. Climate change is happening and it's scary! Let's pass this legislation / land management plan now!
