Comments: As you are aware, some members of Congress are now pushing laws that would expand industrial logging in some of our nation's last and largest old-growth forests and allow more ancient trees to be cut to the ground. The U.S. Forest Service even has a project targeting the Castle/Windy area of Giant Sequoia National Monument that would allow the timber industry to profit off of the public lands that belong to all of us. Trees are some of our best allies in the climate crisis, and our biggest and oldest trees like sequoias are our greatest carbon champions. Please do everything in your power to deliver on your own Executive Order to conserve nature- and old-growth forests, and ensure the future of nature. Our children's livelihood depends on it!
