Comments: I would like to express strong support for Biden's executive order #14072.

The USFS represents public land for all Americans, and the best way to do this is by conserving its most important asset: Old Growth trees. As an avid outdoorsman, Old Growth trees are associated with greater ecological complexity, forest health, cleaner air and water, and help contribute to the American spirit by acting as Sentinels for our great country. By logging them and putting industry first, you are betraying the American public. While logging and forestry has its place, as a democratic nation, far more people support conservation of older forests than logging.
