Comments: Simple, Time for humanity to Give Back to the Earth,. And quell our urge to Take from the Earth, before we do more damage and dig even deeper the graves of the next generations of humanity on this planet. I don't believe a person needs facts, science, or even intellect to understand these simple truths. I put my word in directly from the heart. The older forests with living soil and healthy biodiversity are the remnants of our sacred homelands that still live and breathe in harmony with the earth and should be protected and preserved at all costs.
