

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 9/17/2024 5:24:19 PM

First name: Laurel

Last name: Bunkers

Organization:

Title:

Comments: The U.S. has limited and dwindling old growth forest remaining, and our national parks should be used to protect the remaining areas for future generations, as well as the health of our planet. While precautions must be taken to ensure fire safety (e.g., maintaining/clearing undergrowth as needed), old growth trees should not be logged.