Comments: Old growth forest

Is important. Not just in Kentucky but all over the USA. We need to cherish and protect the trees that have been around since the civil war and before that. They are mother-trees that have an invaluable benefit to wildlife and to plant life that no others can provide. Destroying those forests is a tragedy that has no benefit at all-except to the logging industry. Greenwashing it's with "oh there be more growth, oh, it's actually good for the Forest " and other hogwash is just lies that the industry puts out there to make it ok to destroy the home of many many plant and wildlife families. I urge you to stop this- not just in Kentucky but everywhere!
