

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 9/19/2024 4:00:00 AM

First name: Kellen

Last name: Murphy

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Old growth forests are still forests, and change overtime as any natural system does. It is crucial for land managers to have options and tools to avoid catastrophic destruction of these areas from pest outbreaks, wildfire and invasive species proliferation. Old growth forests cannot be simply abandoned from monitoring and management, should it be required as determined by the professional foresters who manage them, in order to maintain their continued health and vitally important habitat they provide.