

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 9/19/2024 4:00:00 AM

First name: Lacy

Last name: Todd

Organization:

Title:

Comments: The coast range has the ability to sequester more carbon than any other land mass in the world, if we manage it correctly. Keeping carbon in the ground and trees is the only way forward.

The final decision should end the cutting of old-growth and mature trees in national forests. We need to determine where these are and have clear language around what can and cannot be cut.