

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 9/20/2024 4:00:00 AM

First name: Dianna

Last name: Lamb

Organization:

Title:

Comments: I object to the current Interagency Management Teams current firefighting strategies in and out of the wilderness. The big box, let her burn, back burning, don't put it out strategies, are the biggest threat to our forests. They are incinerating Millions of acres of small pristine lake, streams, trails, campgrounds, and is completely unnecessary in the wilderness and out of the wilderness, old growth or not. At the rate we are managing our forest this way we will run out of acres in a few years. Nobody with any common sense could see this as good forest management.

Please there has to be a better way. Put the fires out immediately like we used to and thin the forest. Thused to and thin the forest. Currently it costs the Tax payers Millions if not billions to manage by fire and this is simply not cost effective.

Thank You

Dianna

Oakridge