Comments: To whom it concerns. I disagree with round up these animals are born here so they are now native to the land for management on BLM coming up with a new plan to keep the herds small well the old and the young don't always make it. Keeping them and the mono basin area is what they know is their home relocating them so they become another problem. Somewhere else is not caring. that's why I am against rounding them and relocating these horses. They have been here longer than any of us whether they're native or not to the land and your eyes.
