Comments: My friends and family are outraged by the Cuomo mining project proposed near Idaho City, and I demand that it be stopped.

Despite clear public opposition, this project continues to be pushed forward, threatening our environment and community for the sole benefit of foreign interests and a few profiteers. This is unacceptable.

This project offers nothing to our local community while putting the Boise River headwaters, our wildlife, and our entire peaceful way of life at risk. The environmental destruction and disruption by a giant mining operation in our Boise National Forest is not supposed to be supported by the organization created to protect it.

Who, exactly, stands to financially benefit from this? Canadians? Chinese? Idaho legislators?

Because it certainly isn't the people of Idaho or Idaho City. Idaho City's infrastructure and lack of housing is not able to support the miner needs and additional housing or water needs. That means workers would be coming from elsewhere for a low income wage of UP TO $65000. Creating additional burden on our roads, traffic, and affecting troubled housing market in the negative way.

I expect a prompt response detailing who is behind this project and how they plan to profit while we, the public, bear all the costs.

This community has made its objections clear, and you have an obligation to listen to us.
