Comments: I strongly object this proposed project. The public, it is clear, strongly objects this project. The majority of stakeholders voicing their concerns are residents of Idaho. It is truly asinine to compromise one of Idaho's greatest resources, our wilderness and biodiversity, for a project with benefits to our economy that pale in comparison to the benefits to a private company that is based in a foreign country.

Approving this project is the most unamerican and irresponsible thing that we could possibly do, for marginal benefits. We have seen the impacts of mines in our state. It is imperative that we do the right thing here.
