Comments: I support the mineral withdrawal proposal.

Only 22% of the state's streams that were evaluated over the last five years were clean enough to support all of their assigned beneficial uses. That includes us humans don't ya know!

In 2023, about 85% of drinking water samples taken in South Dakota for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency had lithium concentrations above the health reference level.

We need to protect what little water we have!
