Comments: I was born and raised in Idaho, and spent every summer reacting with my family. I currently manage a rafting company in Salmon and my life is built around the precious free flowing rivers of Idaho. Last year I backpacked from Dixie, Idaho to Thunder Mountain and was able to see the impacts of the stibnite mine, after an excavator would not let the public pass on a public road. These wild places have made me who I am today. The wild salmon run is of utmost importance to me and the wild places that I recreate. This mine will ruin everything my community and I love and stand for.
