

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 10/21/2024 11:24:26 PM

First name: Christiaan

Last name: Barrera,Sr.

Organization:

Title:

Comments: I worked as archeology surveyor in both for USDA Forrest Service and private sector, seeing the devastation of mining practices from over 100 years ago, the use of chemicals that stain the environment are still seen today. The harm that would impact water systems in the future will be devastating to the surrounding cities and water systems and supply. The animals alone will be impacted by its deadly chemicals. It is important to keep this image in your mind as you lust for greed. Leave the land alone. Its the only small piece we have that hasnt been ruined by exploration.

Thank you for your time and understanding.