Comments: I support the withdrawal. Aside from the sacred land, the pristine country side...this country has a responsibility to preserve its drinking water. Drinking water is precious, and the US has the most abundant potable water in the world. That has made our government, and the companies that populate it careless with this resource. Mining is a true danger to water viability, every water source exposed to mining has been contaminated in some way. It is time to protect our resources, the water, the land, and the people. No mining until they come with a way to do it without needing water, and poisoning the land, and the people. It is time to invent material transportation.

Now to the Forest Service please expedite the Withdrawal proposal to the Secretary of the Department of Interior. -Colleen
