Comments: I am fully in favor of a full withdrawal of ceasing development in the Black Hills, and not just for the continued clean water needs for Pactola, and downstream populations. The entire Black Hills is not really properly US owned land, as the Native people have a still legal treaty which provides them with rights of ownership. A century ago, the USA had offered to buy out this treaty, but it was refused, and interest still accrues. They deserve to have a say in the management, and sustaining this as it was created, as they always prefer. My family has titled ownership of land in Wyoming adjacent to the South Dakota Black Hills, and enjoy the recreation of the FS managed land. Protection of the wildlife, and fisheries are important, and known minerals (sulfide) mining methods are often extremely polluting with toxic wastes to land, and water. Stop all industrial, and real estate development.
