Comments: For the last ten years the wildfires on the Western part of the US has been horrid....that people set deliberately, and then accuse lightening as the culprit. The US has lost thousands and thousands of acres and the painful loss of wildlife being burned alive. NOW, you want to repeat this abuse and crap. Leave this place alone, the only supposedly protected areas for these animals to live... Even the Project C recommendation is not enough... Stop burning the only homes the beloved animals have and the birds...You do NOT have the right or authority to do this mayhem destruction. You are not saving anything, only destroying it further. Someone, somewhere in your organization knows I speak the truth. So speak up for the millions of innocent lives in the forests NOW, before this horrid crap happens.. These trees are hundreds of years old... and being burned alive is the most inhumane thing I can think of... and THAT is what will happen. Are you people insane and just do not give a damn or what is your problem? Stop this madness from happening. I beg you.
