Comments: I support this Withdrawal. If nature could speak a familiar language to us humans, it would be marching in the streets, fighting for its right to be free from the violence inflicted upon it by mankind. Instead, nature can only hope that enough people will fight on its behalf. For every one person, myself included, in support of this Withdrawal, there are millions of animate and inanimate species echoing our calls to let nature be. Once we're brave enough to do so, we'll be one big step closer to thriving, as human beings, alongside nature.
