Comments: The need to save 866,741 acres of Wilderness in California from burning, chainsaws, and manipulations is imperative that this is a bad environmental mistake. We need more trees in this state. California official are even giving trees to the public for their ability to cut down on global warming which is what we need in this world at this time. There is no planet B. The world countries went to a number of summits to stop this crises. the money should be spent to uuse drones in vulnerable fire areas and have those areas monitored 24/7.
