Comments: When it comes to managing designated Wilderness I will always choose the option of not letting any agency, government or otherwise, interfere in the way nature takes care of itself. So therefore I support Alternative C, the Wilderness Exclusion Alternative, because it will exempt the Sierra and Sequoia National Forests (and hopefully the Moses Mountain Recommended Wilderness) from the invasive cutting and burning plans. I truly believe that when humans step back and let nature develop her own natural defences with the help of native plants and animals, and unmarred terrain and water sequestration the long term best results will ensue.
