Comments: I am hoping and praying for alternative D. The people that have fought every single timber sale, are as responsible for the massive fires every year, as much as any change to our climate. They blindly look at every "logging scar" but can't see what the huge fires have done to the man's. Now we have to clean up the forest with pile burning, adding to the huge amount of air pollution caused by the regular fires. Then you add the jobs in the logging industry that have been lost over the last 50 years. Plus the lumber from our own country instead of importing from other countries. How is this alternative not a win-win for our people and the country?
