

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 10/8/2024 4:00:00 AM

First name: Jeff

Last name: Smith

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Hello,

Indiana doesn't need anymore early successional forests. In fact the last thing Indiana needs is early successional forests. Most of Indiana is farmland bordered with narrow stretches of trees.

The proposed Buffalo Springs Restoration Project, which will be logging and burning the Hoosier National Forest, is a waste of tax-payers' money.

Let's leave the Hoosier National Forest as it is and focus on expanding it rather than removing the mature trees.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Smith