Comments: ANY harvesting of old growth forests is inherently terrible, considering the climate change mitigation, species preservation and diversity these forests provide. There is plenty of other timber available for logging elsewhere. Please save these old growth forests for our children's and grandchildren's future environment. We have done so much damage already and, perhaps, by stopping Telephone Gap logging, we can start to redeem our legacy.

Though I live in Pennsylvania, I realize the importance of old growth forests across our country, our continent, and the world. By saving them, we may be able to save ourselves.
