

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 1/15/2025 1:28:58 AM

First name: Dave

Last name: Rosato

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Responsible forest management practices have consistently shown that logging is good for the health of the forest and for wildlife. We only need to look at the forest fires in California to observe the consequences of poor or forest management. During an extremely dry summer Vermont is not immune to such catastrophic events. Currently young forests will become old growth forests, it will just occur well beyond our lifetime.