Comments: I am wholeheartedly opposed to opening up Telephone Gap to logging. This would be against the wishes of Vermonters AND extremely short-sighted.

Our planet is heating and one of the results is increased precipitation. This water is rushing through the landscape unhindered by trees, the natural instruments of slowing down rushing water. This rushing water is also carrying away nutrients and soil which we human sorely need.

Good forest stewards would defer to the wisdom of the forests and let the them recover from earlier predation naturally and in their own time. Rather than listening to the voices of those who wish only to acquire money.
