Comments: The Forest Service must take immediate action to research dangerous recreation overuse of the Flathead River system, and research further how best to limit its impact and address the problems created. The overwhelming majority of use on the rivers should be for public use and conservation; commercial outfitting and guiding should be limited to only the level that is "necessary and "proper" as required by the Wilderness Act. Data collection and analysis needs to include the entirety of the Flathead River corridor (1/4 mile to either side of the river). The impacts of commercial use are already having a devastating affect on wildlife - the time to act is now.
