Comments: I raft the Flathead often and it's not many private groups that use it. It's all the Commercial Rafting companies, often 15 boats in a group. Very, very few private trips have more than 2 or 3 boats in their group. No need to over regulate here. We have enough government in our lives. Start by limiting the amount of commercial trips and then see what happens from there. Pretty simple to make them take one year off and then see how many people are actually using the River.
