Comments: I worked for the Forest Service for almost 20 years as a wildlife biologist. I love many of the species that the Northwest Forest Plan was a perfect solution. Now I am discussed with the agency I worked for. The spotted owl is not the only old growth dependent species that you will be killing. Many of my friends talk of walking through the gigantic trees and I know that feeling. It's my feeling of heaven!

I will work to defeat you who think cutting down an hundred year old tree is fine.
