Comments: I cannot emphasize enough how important it is to protect the beautiful land we all call home, especially the ancient forests that came before us and are meant to have stayed long past us. We are responsible for the animals and insects that call these forests home, and not only is it important to protect the forests for them, they are what make our country so amazing. It's incredible the kind of nature we have at our doorsteps, and to endanger and destroy the ecosystems we depend on is an attack on our health, our wildlife, and our country.
