Comments: I have recently heard about the large-scale bioacoustic monitoring and analysis work being done on your project across the Pacific Northwest. I'm very enthused about this work! I think it's a terrific way to get more and better data for managing our wildlife resources. This seems to be one of the most cost-effective ways to collect wildlife data. At a time when grants and government funding is threatened, it's important to try new and cost effective management techniques like this. I look forward to seeing what kind of better, informed decisions this work will lead us to in protecting spotted owls and other threatened species. Please continue to fund this work!
