Comments: To the USDA Forest Service

I'm sure you're aware of the old saying: "If it's not broken, don't fix it."

While the Northwest Forest Plan may not be perfect, it has helped safeguard the Northwest's publicly held old-growth and mature forests. Until something more robust (and not driven by the logging industry) is developed, please don't change the Plan.

As a West Coast resident, I am deeply appreciative of our old-growth forests. More and more people are being told to heal themselves through nature. If we destroy the basis of nature (our trees), how will we heal?

Sincerely,

BF
