Comments: Hi, I just heard about this today, and today is the last day for comment, so I don't have time to research ... but I am very scared that an un-renewable resource (old-growth forests) is going to be sacrificed because ... we've decided we need to be more profitable? That's not the job of the government. I have no confidence that these decisions are being taken with the long-term good of the american people as the foremost consideration.

Thank you.
