Comments: At this late hour I would like to just add another comment to the N.W. Forest Plan Amendment: Please consider environmental concerns, the survival of birds and the many various creatures of the forest. A healthy old growth forest will provide this and so many other benefits like clean water retention through out the seasons, healthy streams and salmon runs. For this reason I would suggest to leave the harvest age of trees at 80 years and leave the older ones alone.

In addition I would like to see native American input to benefit from their ancient wisdom. These are the main points, time is running out
