Comments: I am a fifth generation Oregonian and trail runner who has lived in the state all, but two years of my life. I cannot express how much the forests mean to me, my friends and family. I have traveled many places in the world and have never seen anything quite as unique and beautiful as northwest forests and public lands. I am concerned about the prospect of more logging and what that means for our old growth and beautiful natural spaces that we all share. I'm concerned about fires and how logged forests are more prone to them as well as how fires affect our air quality. Our forests are what define Oregon and make it a special place. I asked that we keep these lands as they are for Oregonians and others to enjoy for years to come.
