Comments: The Forest Service has taken the right steps in doing a site-specific analysis through an EA for the Webster Cliff Trail and by proposing to complete trail work without motorized tools and equipment.
The Forest Service now needs to do a proper analysis, including looking at alternatives.
One alternative to consider is relocating this part of the Webster Cliff Trail within the 1,000-foot wide existing trail corridor in the Wilderness, assuming-as the scoping letter does-that the proposed reroute is outside of the trail corridor. The Forest Service should make every effort to relocate trails in Wilderness within established trail corridors.
It would be good to impact Wilderness as little as possible and perhaps limiting use of the trail would be helpful along with more maintenance.
