Comments: The South Bowl Boundary Adjustment and lift would have a negative impact on the wilderness experience for recreationalists in the Teton Canyon area. Notably the visual impact of the lift and supporting infrastructure would detract from the wilderness experience in and around the canyon. Although the south facing aspect could provide some quality skiing in the spring, it would add very little to the skiing experience during most of the ski season. I would recommend that Targhee prioritize upgrades to Dreamcatcher and Shoshone before embarking on any of the other projects.
