Comments: I endorse this project whole heartedly. The existing trail system near Mammoth Rock is amazing and adding more trails will only make it that much better.

Some comments: potentially adding designated direction trails, and/or just one designated "climbing" trail to access the rest of the trails (similar to uptown and downtown).

Has there been any talk of increasing the difficulty of the trails at all? I think having a more intermediate option, would really add to the project.

Lastly, this is a more longterm project idea and would take a substantial amount of resources and volunteers, but a LONG 30+ mile long trail from mammoth to Bishop would be amazing. 4k feet of decent along the front range overlooking the owner valley would be a very cool community addition along the levels of other recreation areas like Sedona, Moab etc... Just wanted to throw that out there to see if the community is interested in something like this in the future.
