Comments: I am a seasons pass holder at Grand Targhee and love everything about this ski area as it is. If it grows and over develops like so many other great ski areas of the past...it will lose its charm and edge. I am against any new growth outside the current boundaries. If they want to improve on the facilities that exist to draw in more folks that seems reasonable but to build out seems so short sighted. Beyond how it affects me, I can't imagine the impact on the wildlife in the area. There is so little truly wild places left in this country and now we are going to grab up more wildlife habitat. This valley is exploding with growth and I just can't see building more infrastructure that is empty for more than half the year. People already can't afford to live and work here. I will never go back to big sky/moon light basin. They have destroyed it and the Vail group has destroyed so many other great mom and pop ski areas of the past. Let enough alone. Stop the madness...please say no to any growth outside what is already developed. Let the animals have a place to live without us encroaching. Plus this is public land and while Targhee is still cheaper then many other area it is no longer a middle class persons spot. The price of a day ticket has nearly tripled since we first started skiing there. Who gets to use it? Mostly the well off. Let's say NO. Enough, thank you Jen Tissot
