Comments: Just by the fact that this land is unceded treaty lands alone, legally, should be enough to stop any desecration of the land by a mining project. But if you need another reason: There is absolutely nothing to be proud about in being "American" without the land. It means absolutely nothing, and will mean nothing once the waters have all been poisoned and the lands altered and destroyed. Every decision like this is a chance to consider future generations. The land is everything. We can use less. Don't give away this treasure to a capitalist company to be forever altered.
