Comments: The Administration, regardless of their desires to ruin this country, has a duty to protect the people, waters, and lands within America's borders. The mining project discussed in this endeavor is a direct assault on Native lands and rights. Pe'sla is a sacred land and the Lakota have been through enough. We have to respect Native peoples and their lands and granting permission for this project is not it.

As an American citizen, I should not have to fight this hard for my government to protect me. The government knows that people suffer and die when the water, air, and land is polluted. You know climate change is real regardless of the censorship being dictated by the President. Protect our land. Protect our waters. Protect our air. Protect our Native population.
